The GAZETTE, OF THE State of South-Carolina.

FRIDAY, JULY 9, 1779. [No. 2137.]

By His Excellency JOHN RUTLEDGE, Esq; Governour and Commander in Chief of South Carolina.

A PROCLAMATION:

WHERRAS it appears no longer neceſſary, to prohibit Vendues or Sales by Auction, to ſtop the Proceedings of the Courts of juſtice, and to continue the Law Martial: I do therefore, by and with the Advice and Conſent of the Privy Council, hereby revoke and annul the ſeveral Proclamations which have been iſſued, for prohibiting Vendues or Sales by Auction, for ſtopping the Proceedings of the Courts of Juſtice, and for declaring the Law Martial to be of Force in this State: and the ſaid Proclamations are hereby accordingly revoked, annulled, and made void to all Intents and Purpoſes; whereof all Perſons whom it may concern are to take due Notice.

Given under my Hand, and the Great Seal of this State, the third Day of July, Anno Domini 1779, and in the Third Year of American Independence.

J. RUTLEDGE.

GOD Save the State.

By his Excellency JOHN RUTLEDGE, Eſq; Governor and Commander in Chief of South Carolina.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS divers weighty and important Affairs require, that the Legiſlature ſhould be forthwith convened: I do therefore, by and with the Advice and Conſent of the Privy Council, appoint Monday the 26th Day of July, Inſtant, for the Meeting and Sitting of the honourable the Senate, and the Houſe of Repreſentatives, of this State, in General Aſſembly: and the ſeveral Members thereof are hereby ſummoned and required, to meet and ſit, at the uſual Place in Charles-Town, on that Day.

Given under my Hand, and the Great Seal of this State, the third Day of July, Anno Domini 1779, and in the Third Year of American Independence.

J. RUTLEDGE.

GOD ſave the State.

LONDON, March 16.

THE public may be aſſured, that no terms have been received, from the Courts of France or Spain, for opening a negociation for the termination of the preſent war, as hath been induſtriouſly circulated—"for the benefit of the ſtockholders".

The horrible effects of corruption in the direction of public affairs, grow more viſible every day. Was not a late Governour of Greenwich Hoſpital, turned out of his place, and proſecuted for a libeller, only becauſe he was an honeſt man, and complained of the corrupt practices winked at by ſome great perſons, and of the ſhameful treatment of the diſabled ſeamen in that hoſpital? And was not Admiral Keppel ordered to be tried by a Court Martial, only becauſe he accuſed one of the Board of Admiralty, who was an Officer under him, of diſobeying his ſignal? It is now a crime to be an honeſt man. "When wicked men bear ſway, the poſt of Honour is a private ſtation."

If the K——would be perfectly informed of the preſent condition of his people, let him attend to the following objects—Let him be told, that thoſe perſons who purchaſed in the four per cent. twenty years ſince, at 106 l. muſt now ſell out, if obliged, at 62 l. If that ſhould be thought an inadequate eſtimate let him compare the ſame funds, when ſtated in 1760, during the war with France, and as they fluctuate now in the preſent year 1779: Let him inquire how many people of property, notwithſtanding the great loſs they ſuſtain by it, are now daily telling out of the ſtocks. Beſeech him to ask his prime Counſellor, Lord Mansfield, why he never would truſt any of his money in the funds, but rather lend it upon mortgages, on very moderate intereſt? Acquaint him with the preſent value of land, the richeſt property in this or any kingdom. Tell him, that eſtates which were bought at thirty-eight years purchaſe, twelve years ſince, are now ſold at twenty-five. Let him be thoroughly informed of the preſent ſtate of our manufactures at Norwich, Liverpool, Mancheſter, &c. Adviſe him to conſult the exports and imports in the Cuſtom-Houſe books. In a progreſs through London, deſire him, at his leiſure, count the houſes which are unlet, and the ſhops which are ſhut up. Let him read the bankruptcies in the Gazette, from the firſt of November to the laſt of February. Laſtly, let him view the emaciated, diſcontenteated, ſullen, anxious, eager, hungry diſpirited, deſponding, and melancholy countenances of thoſe who walk the ſtreets of this metropolis. Let him do this, and then, in the emphatical words of Shakeſpear, to dinner—with what appetite he may.

This day arrived a mail from France, in which there is a confirmation of a fire having broke out at Breſt, on board the Roland ſhip of war, of 64 guns, which, together with the Zephir Frigate, of 20 guns, was totally conſumed, and it was with the greateſt difficulty prevented from ſpreading to others.

The Neptune tranſport, Captain Hudſon, from London and Limerick, for Penſacola, is ſent into Breſt; ſhe had on board 830 tierces of pork, 650 barrels of of flour, 90 puncheons of peaſe, 300 bags of bread, 500 firkins of butter, and 35 bales of ſoldiers cloathing.

Extract of a letter from Falmouth, March 9.

"Juſt came to anchor in this harbour the La Dame, a French ſhip of 800 tons, from St. Domingo, bound to Breſt, laden with cotton, ſugar, coffee, indico, &c. the moſt valuable prize which has been brought to this Port, during the preſent hoſtilities. She was ſent in by the Mearne privateer, belonging to Penryn, after an engagement of 2 hours and a half, in which the French ſhip had 18 men killed, and 26 wounded."

The following is a tranſlation of a letter from Count d'Orvilliers, which appeared in a Morning paper; ſaid to be written at the requeſt of a Lady with whom the Count was at ſupper when the news arrived of the charges exhibited by Sir Hugh Palliſer againſt Admiral Keppel:

"To Admiral KEPPEL.

"I learnt, with aſtoniſhment, what has happened to you. Our fates have been very ſingular, and greatly reſembling each other. I have been diſmiſſed from the command of the French fleet, becauſe I did not take half the Engliſh one; and you are to take your trial for not taking two-thirds of the French fleet. Like you, I had an Admiral under my command, who did not comprehend my ſignals. But for reaſons which you may eaſily imagine, I ſaid nothing; he, however, has quitted the ſea.—Your Admiral did not anſwer your ſignals; you was ſilent, for reaſons which I could never comprehend: But he, inſtead of leaving you, attacks and accuſes you of negligence, and bad conduct. This in my opinion, is an ill-timed pleaſantry; but I am perſuaded, you will extricate yourſelf with honour.

I have the honour to be, with great Reſpect, &c.

D'ORVILLIERS."

Charleſtown, July 7.

THE ſecond expedition of the Britiſh army (of the ſucceſsful iſſue of which, the Engliſh & Scotch, and the Royal American News-Papers, have been filled with pompous predictions for above a twelve-month paſt) to render themſelves maſters of this town, is now at an end, and has proved equally, if not more, diſgraceful to their arms, than their firſt attempt in the year 1776. Their army, under the command of brigadier general Prevoſt, conſiſting of two battalions of highlanders (the 71ſt regiment) a regiments of Heſſians, 1 battalion of the 60th, a regiments of North-American new levies, col. Brown's corps of dragoons or light horſe; to which were attached a large body of the moſt infamous banditti and horſe-thieves, that perhaps ever were collected together any where, under the direction of M'Girt (dignified with the title of colonel) a corps of Indians, with negro and white ſavages diſguiſed like them, and about 1500 of the moſt ſavage diſaffected poor people, ſeduced, from the back ſettlements of this ſtate and North Carolina——entered this ſtate the 30th of April laſt: By a rapid march, the aſſiſtance of the beſt guides, a ſeaſon uncommonly favourable, and taking routes that could not be ſuſpected, this reſpectable body arrived before the town, quite unexpected, the 11th of May: on the 12th, they precipitately withdrew by night; and have ever ſince been ſtealing from iſland to iſland, till they have eſcaped, though not without an attack in their lines upon the 20th of June (after having been twice in vain invited out) wherein they ſuffered ſeverely, eſpecially their corps of highlanders. In ſtripping even women and children, and the very negroes, of all their cloathing; cutting up all the feather-beds, that our people ſhould have none to lie on, and carrying off the ticken; robbing every where all the plate and money that could be found; deſtroying papers of all kinds; cutting up or daſhing to pieces every kind of uſeful houſhold furniture; wantonly ſhooting down all kinds of live ſtock; burning houſes, and carrying off ſome thouſands of negroes and horſes, are meritorious and glorious acts, we are warranted to ſay, that no Britiſh army ever did acquire more glory, than that commanded by brigadier general Auguſtine Prevoſt: but what could not be accompliſhed by an army to which ſuch honourable corps were attached?——Particulars of this notable expedition will be publiſhed, as ſoon as they can be properly collected and arranged; thro' the whole of which, we are perſuaded, if the information we have already received can be depended upon, there will not be the leaſt cauſe for cenſure on any part of the conduct of the hon. col. Maitland, major Skelley, col. Thomas Brown, one of the Heſſian colonels, and ſome few other officers, who did not come diveſted of puſillanimity and humanity.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS ſince the Incurſion of the Enemy into this State, diverſe Perſons have become poſſeſſed of Negroes, Horſes, Cattle, Houſhold Furniture, Cloathing, and various Kinds of Property belonging to others, and ſtill continue ſo poſſeſſed, ſome really not knowing who the Owners of ſuch Property are, and others endeavouring to conceal and deprive them of it: I do therefore, with the Advice and Conſent of the Privy Council, order and require all Perſons who have in their Cuſtody, Power or Poſſeſſion, any Slaves, Horſes, Cattle, Houſhold Furniture, Cloathing, or any Kind of Property belonging to others, to tranſmit and deliver a juſt and true Account and Return, with a particular Deſcription thereof to Lieutenant Colonel Creighton, the Quarter-Maſter General in Charles-Town, on or before the 30th Day June Inſtant (to the End that the Owners of it may know where to apply for the ſame;) hereby notifying to ſuch as fail ſo to do, that they will be deemed Plunderers and treated accordingly.

AND WHEREAS ſeveral Perſons have lately taken upon them, under various Pretences, but without legal Authority or Warrant from me, to ſeize, impreſs and remove Cattle, Horſes, Proviſions, and other Articles, whereby Individuals have been greatly diſtreſſed and injured: I do therefore ſtrictly prohibit ſuch an unwarrantable Practice, and make known, that thoſe who offend in like Manner, ſhall be puniſhed. And in order that they may be brought to Juſtice, I do require and direct all Officers of the Militia, and particularly Commanders of Patrols, to apprehend ſuch as ſhall ſo offend, and ſend them in ſafe Cuſtody to Charles-Town.

Given under my Hand and the great Seal of this State, the 25th Day of May, Anno Domini 1779, and in the third year of American Independence.

J. RUTLEDGE.
